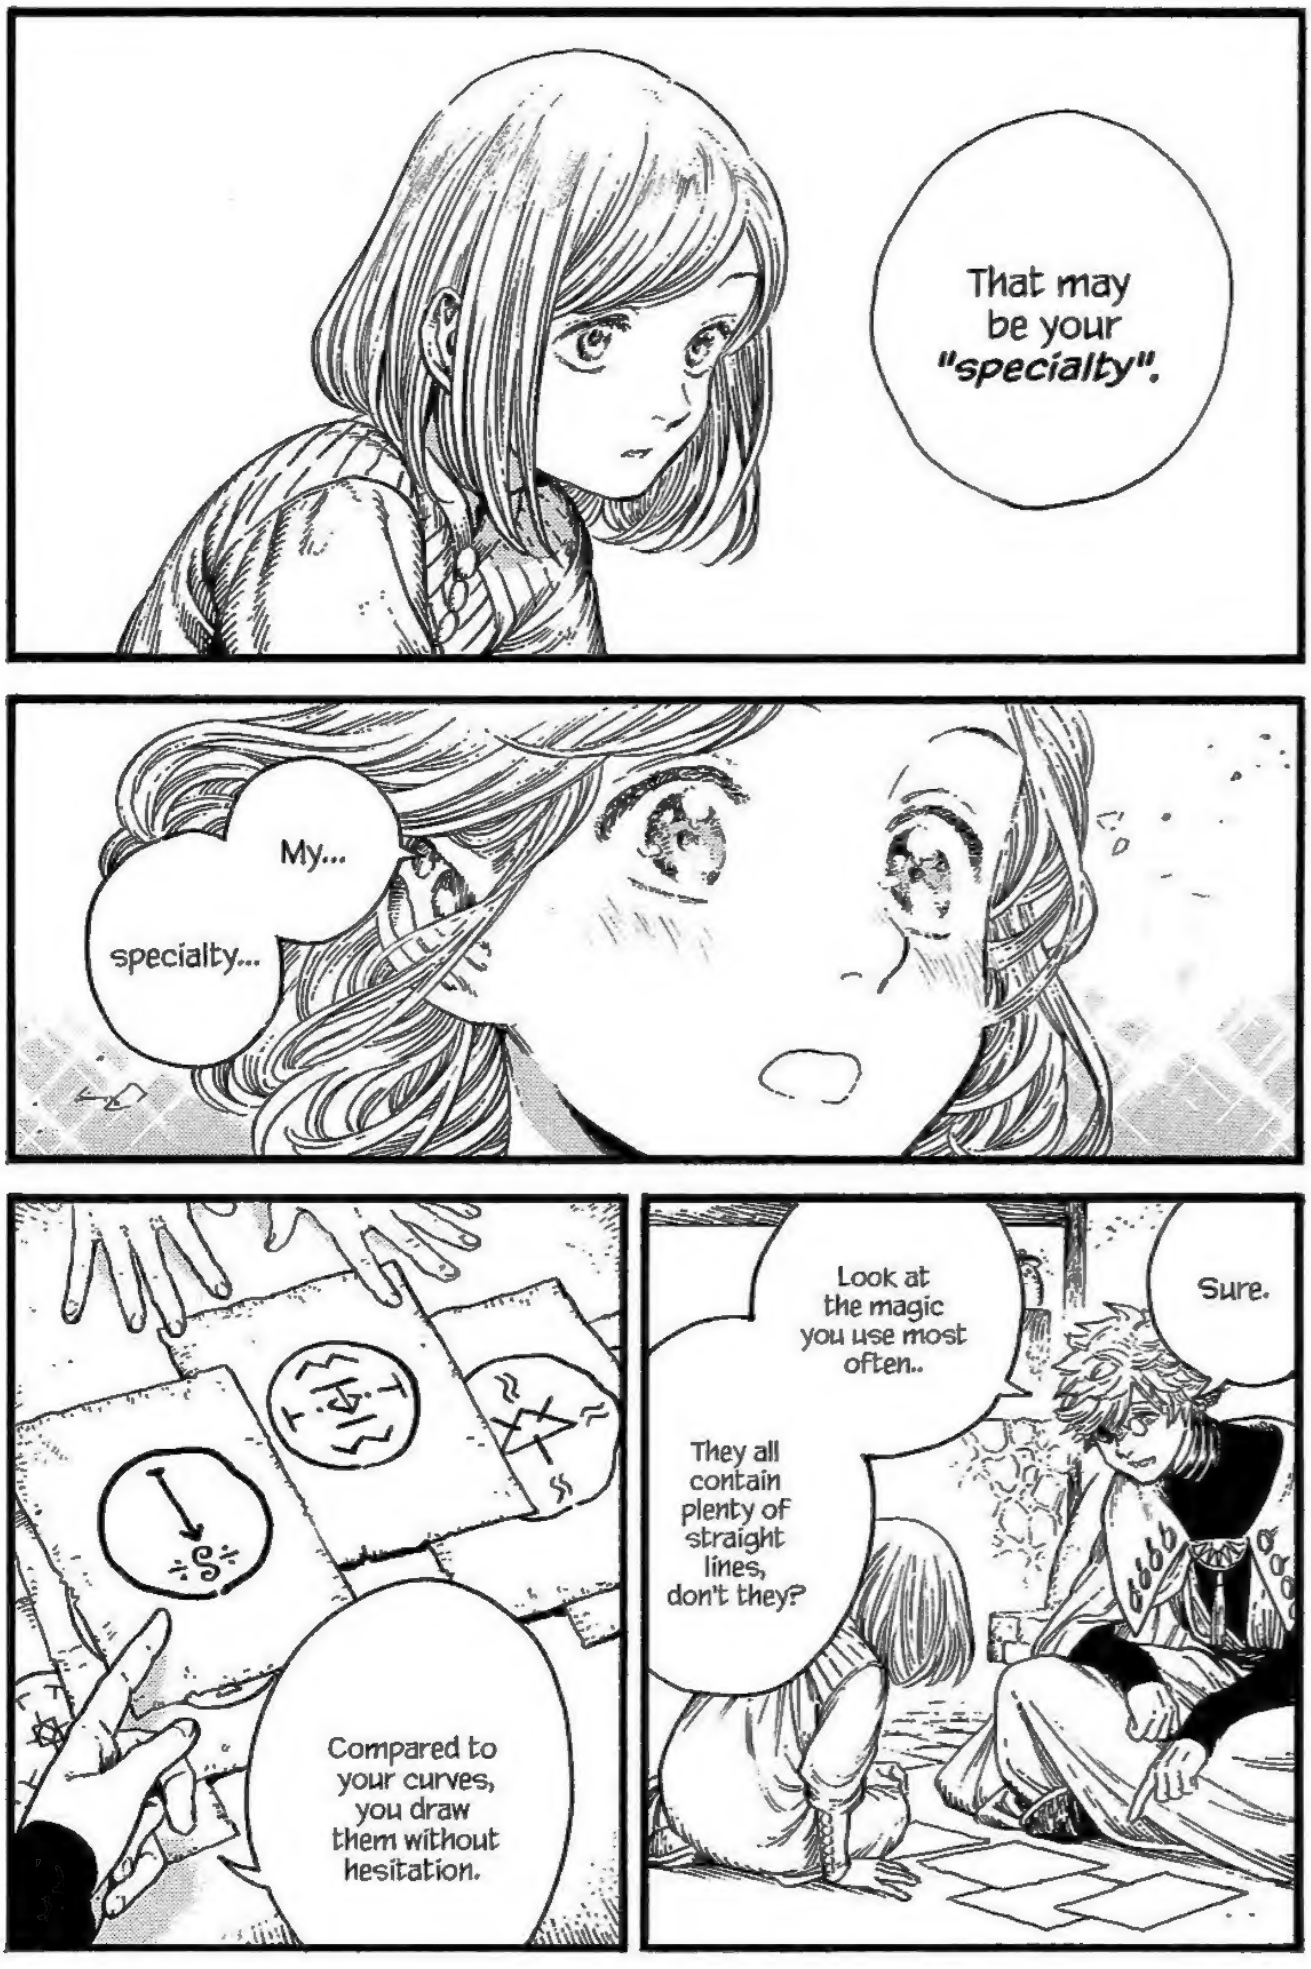
It's breeding season for the Scaled Wolves.
To avoid hurting their young,
they shed off their hardened scales by rubbing up against eachother.
They wouldn't have to weaken themselves if they didn't procreate....

I didn't expect that a girl like her would have anything to teach me.
Fidget...
Since the Unlearned are outsiders,
They're defenseless even if they get involved with magic.
...But if she learns our laws properly,
Would she be any different, I wonder...?
Alright! I did it!

Your magic drawing has gotten steadier, hasn't it, Coco?
I'm glad! But, I still have a long way to go...
That's just wonderful!
WOW!
Well, in my opinion...
That one... This one...
HM—MM
There are only a few magic that I can use well.
When it comes down to it, I end up resorting to the same set of glyphs.
Magic that's accessible,
not prone to mistakes, easy to handle,
that you can draw effortlessly...



That may be your "specialty".
My...
specialty...
Compared to your curves, you draw them without hesitation.
They all contain plenty of straight lines, don't they?
Look at the magic you use most often..
Sure.

If you understand your specialty in magic, when the time comes, and you need something you can rely on,
it will be that confidence which supports you.
I noticed it when we first met, those wonderful straight lines of yours.
So, whenever you may be nervous, just repeat that to yourself.
"My specialty is drawing straight lines"!
My specialty is that I can draw straight lines, right!?
My specialty is...
"drawing straight lines"...

Wait, wait wait wait!
I'll straighten everything up, straight away!
Al—riiight!
Now that I get that, I can't be beat!
THUD
THUD
After all, you could always pick up another "specialty", couldn't you?
You still need to practice magic that you aren't talented at, and don't know how to write!
Improving at your specialty is something that will come naturally, so...
Deep...
Right?
dense

Magic glyphs are even more incredible than I thought.
I hadn't noticed until now, but...
Yet, I can still understand them.
I've learned their composition...
It's so complicated...
it's all too awesome, so awesome that I forgot the words...
Want to read together, Riché?
Your vocabulary is too small.
The magic of awesome people is so awesome...
hahee~
Haa~ awesome...
This is awesome...

It's like the ribbons are made of crystals.
I can't look away... so pretty...

If you want one, you can have it.
Hey, can I ask you something?

I'm so happy...! Thank you!

Me, I barely know magic at all, so,
it's fun to see it in books...
Why don't you like to read?
What kind of person they were, and what time they were in when they drew their magic...
I love to imagine stuff like that while I'm reading.
Riché just wants to think about Riché's magic.

Having to draw things I don't want to... that isn't Riché's magic...
That's what I hate.
After I read a book,
I hafta "draw it the same way".
Coco,
This doesn't concern you.
Riché...
Riché...
Because I don't want to get Riché's magic dirty.
I don't need someone else's magic.

She uses that stubbornness to protect herself...
Before she came here, Riché was dismissed by another teacher she had studied under.

Humans... are not so simple as magic.

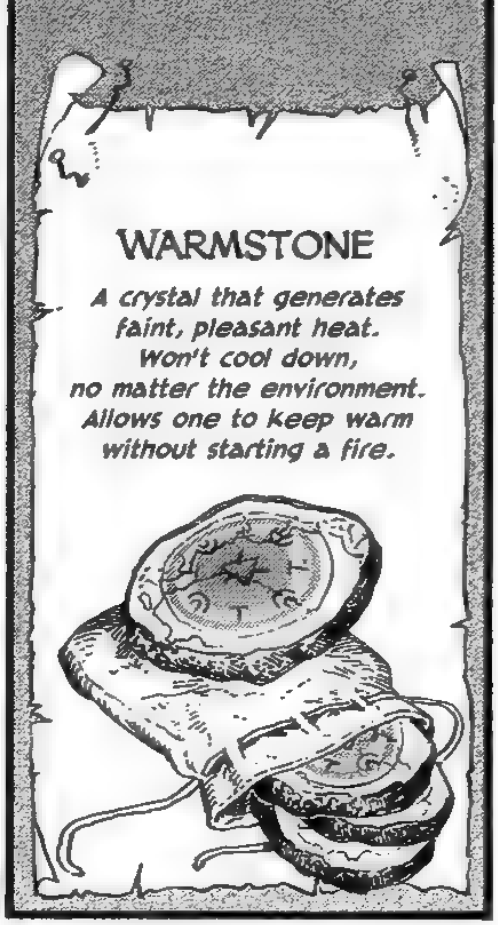
Like a Scaled Wolf with its armored coat...
How far should I step in?

My new magic, a "Warmstone".

What, a stone?

Here.
Toss

It'll warm you to the core.
Put it in your bed,
and it should help you get some better rest.



WARMSTONE
A crystal that generates faint, pleasant heat. Won't cool down, no matter the environment. Allows one to keep warm without starting a fire.

Th-..this is just part of my job, my job!
It's a prototype for a new product, so I just want to hear their thoughts on it!

I'll just leave it at that, then. I'll make sure they get them.

Thank you.

This might just be to ease my mind, but give these to your students for me.

Your magic is so kind.
It says more than words ever could.

...4 of them are for the students, and the last one is for you.
Hey, Oru. There's too many.
There are 5 here.

Since, you are their teacher.
Show them how important it is to get a proper night's rest.

TL Note:
Our reasons for the name change from
"Agete" to "Agathe" basically boil down to:

"Agete" is innaccurate from the actual Japanese (アガット, Agatto)

"Agathe" is a real name with roots in German, French, etc.

Don't worry, Agathe.

Well, I'm glad you were able to get some rest.

No matter how much you prepare,

My pupil, Eunie, here...
He has failed it twice now.
A world of difference from my little dropout here. No matter how many times he takes it, he can't seem to pass it properly.

Nor are they things to be traded.
I would trade my right hand for her,

I'm always causing problems for professor Couccoureaux because I'm such a poor student.
Um...
It's my fault for being so useless!
It's all true.

Nice to meet you! I'm Alaira.

I see you brought everyone, not just the students taking the test.

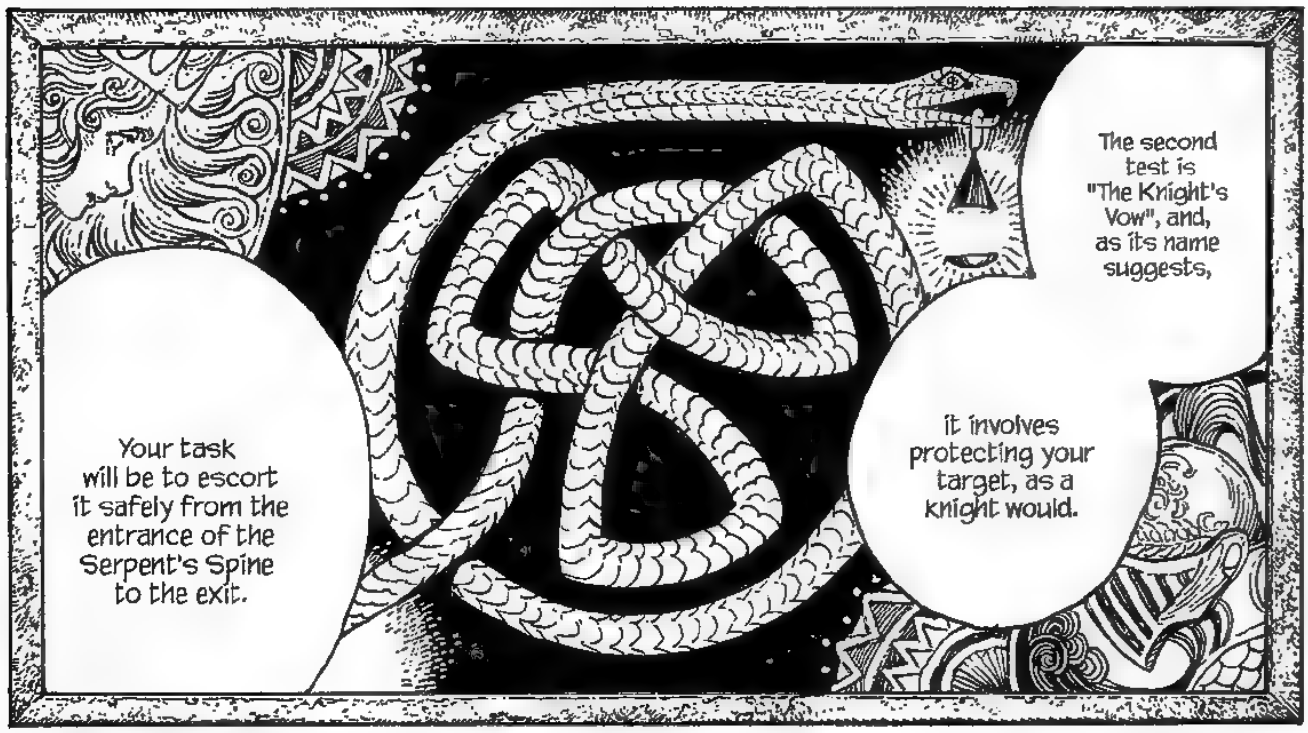
What a coinci-dence!
So, you'll be the proctor.



The second test is "The Knight's Vow", and, as its name suggests, it involves protecting your target, as a knight would.
Your task will be to escort it safely from the entrance of the Serpent's Spine to the exit.

Losing sight of the escort midway is grounds for failure.
Not making it to the exit together is also an out.
Of course, being seen drawing magic will also get you disqualified.
What happens if they're seen...?
Do...don't tell me, our memory will be...?

If they're seen, well.
There's no real worry that the secret of magic will be revealed...
!?
FLOMP
But for the test, it will certainly result in failure.
After all, humans would expose us.
Put on that mantle and try taking a look over there.
Uwaah...!

Are those... Griffins!?
No... Those are Merffins.
They're a different species, that lives by the water.

Then, the second test... is to protect them from magic, with our own magic...
Exactly!
The cave used in this test, the Serpent's Spine, is a relic from the Age of Chaos.
The interior swirls with labrynthine magic, which makes it dangerous to stray from the path.
Humans can't enter these ruins, but...
For the animals here, this cave connects their breeding grounds to the rest of their migration route.
FWSH!
Witches have to take responsibility for changing their habitat.

We escort the young ones, so they don't get lost!
That's why, every year...

If you take it off or damage the glyph, they'll run away, so be careful!
The Merffins should be seeing you as friends now, since you are wearing those mantles.
One bird per person!
Okay, you'll get this one.
It's more complicated, in a way...
This isn't just magic to trick the eyes of humans
I see.

Uh...
One for Riché...?
There's no mistake here.
You've got it wrong...
Riché isn't taking the test.
Oh?
That's strange.
We received an application.

You're taking the test, too, Riché.

You said Riché could do things the way Riché wanted to.
That's why I came t'you, to Teacher's home.

It's not that I don't care...
Adults just want to make me do what they want...
But Teacher doesn't care about what Riché wants.
that I want you to take the test.
It's because I care,
That's why...
Right now, you may not want to, but...
I believe that one day, you'll look back, and be glad that you took this test.

Would you believe in me for today?
Glance

Sure!
For this test,
Riché will do it the way she wants to.
That's fine.
If I try it and don't like it, I'll quit.

It'd be nice if no one gets lost in the darkness, and they all arrive at the exit.

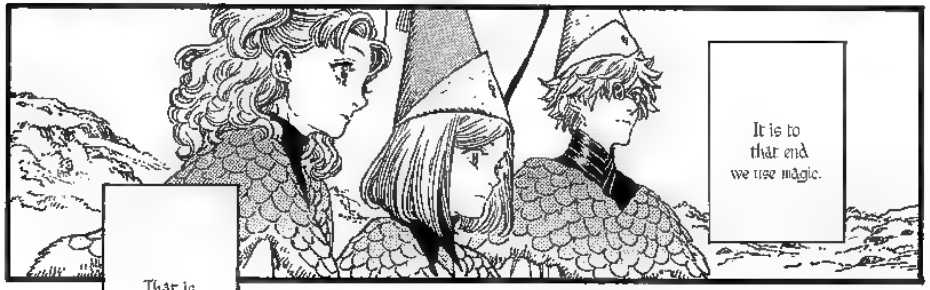
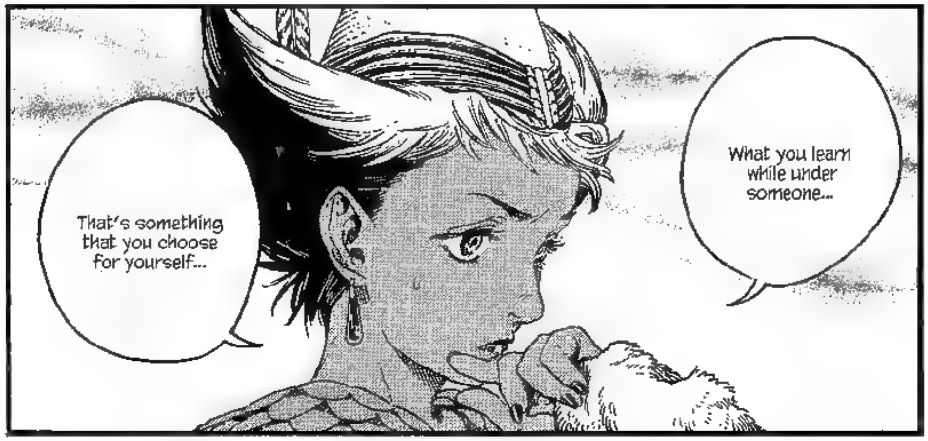
Yeah...
Do your best...
Ah...
I-... I'll do my best...!



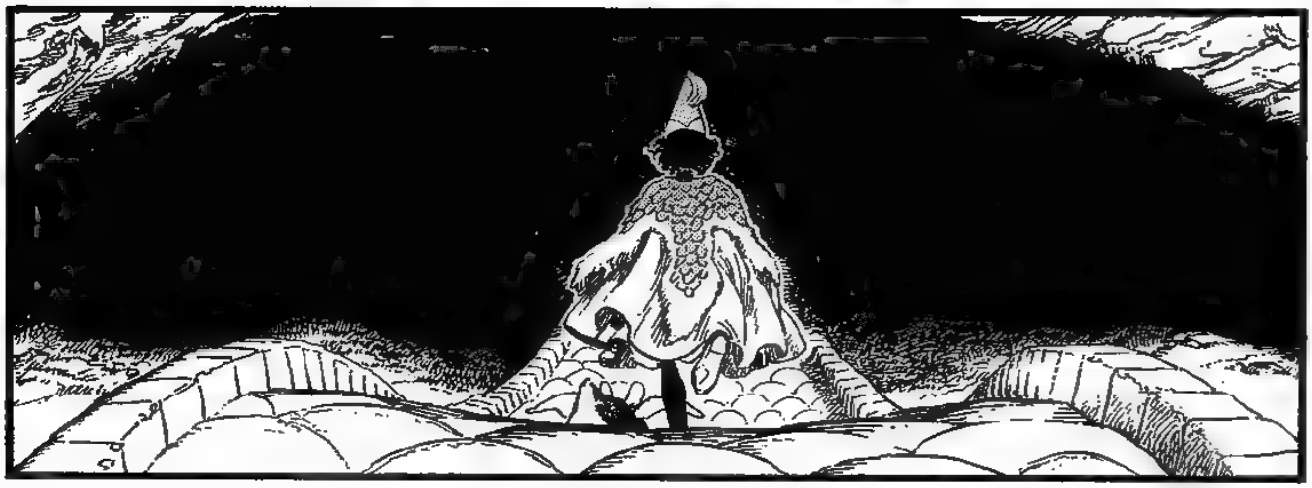
It is to that end we use magic.
That is its purpose.

Mmmk,
I suppose I'll be reporting things to the Auditorium.
Alaira!
Will he be all right?

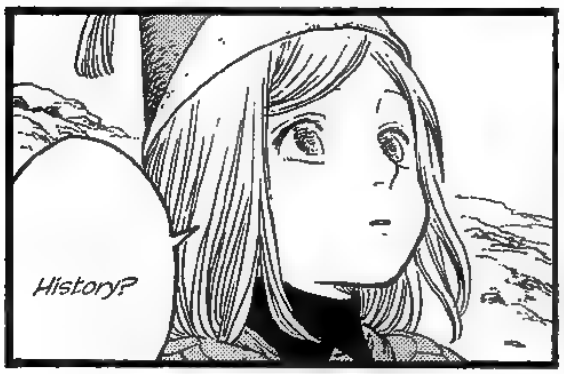


That's something that you choose for yourself...
What you learn while under someone...

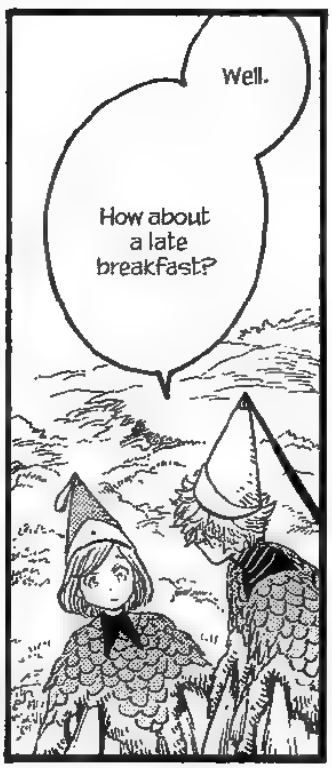
The migration has begun!
Move out!
FLAP FLAP
...



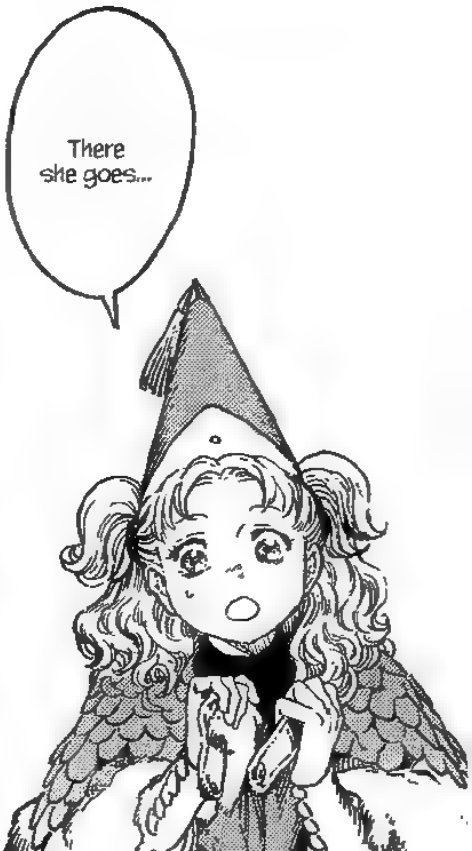
While we do that, I'll give you a lesson in history.



History?



Well.
How about a late breakfast?



There she goes...

That's right
The magic that lies in ruins like the Serpent's Spire.
You still don't know much about it, do you, Coco?
It's from before the "Day of Conspiracy".
The forbidden magic that left scars on this world.

The prosperous people of the Romonneau Chasm-City resided in these caves, crafting their delicate magic.
Adorning themselves in gold and jewels, they made no attempt to hide their opulence.
Citizens of other countries and visitors to the city were shunned and looked down upon...

The Romonneau created a winding passage in the shape of a serpent, which only the chosen could traverse.
To bring in those deemed valuable to the city,
Word of Romonneau's wealth spread and travelers came from far and wide.
so that none could reach Romonneau.
Labrynthine magic was engraved in stone throughout the cave,
And as for those vagrants who could not benefit the city, they were not allowed to pass.
Our Radiant Romon-neau will shine eternal!
The destitute, the depraved, the degenerate, they shall never set foot on our glorious homeland!
And before long...
it also became ever more arrogant and exclusive.
Rommoneau glittered ever more brightly, but...

What are you to Romonneau?
the people of Rommoneau began to judge each others' value to the city.
What kind of question is that!?
Those who were deemed worthless...
had their bodies transmuted into gold.

In the end, they were crushed underneath the mountain of gold they had built.
Like the muddy waters of a dammed river,
Romonneau stagnated.
Through hatred, the country was destroyed from within...
growing weary...
and weak...
All that remains is the cobbled stone of the Serpent's Spine, and the cave that was transformed into a labyrinth...

...But Profes-sor...
And even scarier, perhaps,
is how easily we let such horrific things happen.
Humans can be truly terrifying.
Can't magic also bring people happiness?
It has the power

As a result,
You live bound by their rules, limiting your potential...
Have you ever had such a dream?
Forbidden magic is our "salvation".

A dream of a world where you could remain a child forever.
A dream of becoming an adult, right here and now.
A dream where you were free to be your perfect self...
A dream to draw magic without having to hide yourself.
My dream has released me from of the shackles of flesh...
HOV ER
Flying through the air without using those shoes, going wherever the wind takes you.

One day, the world will remember,
Which of these two hats

And if need be, we won't hesitate making a sacrifice or two...
Gu...

We will make that day come sooner,

Brimhats sometimes turn glyphs into tattoos,
and then carve them into their very skin.

Even as an unwilling victim,
To have magic engraved on our skin is a terrible crime.

So, he said he would try to-
Stray from the path, and the cave's labyrinthine magic will take hold.

That "Brimhat"
has been levitating this whole time...!
I never thought they'd end up being this useful.
All the things I had done to compensate for my weakness,
It looks like we saved Agathe-san...
I'm glad it went well.

for me to have a bit more confidence...!
It feels so nice...
maybe it's alright...
Professor, listen!
It seems I'm not useless as I thought I was.
I'm not as useless as you said I was.

Professor... might not understand,

Quite right.
And had you stayed hidden with that peculiar skill of yours,
Perchance I would've let you go..
You lack the darkness of one who walks in shadow.
Ah...

If you want to hide so much,
I might as well give you a proper reason to.

Some-thing's not right...
they should've been taken by the Romonneau's ancient magic...
After straying from the road,
no matter who or what magic they had,
We have to get back to Professor Qifrey as fast as we can!
Find Eunie now!
If that Brimhat is still here,
we're in danger...!

Agathe, what do we do? Eunie— Eunie is...
You...!
What can we do but experiment?
Our research has stagnated after the loss of so much forbidden magic...
How sur-prising!
I didn't expect that from the scaled-wolf pelt mantle.

Change Eunie back!!
Stop messing around!
Didn't go as planned, but...
I'm sure that will do just fine.
If you wish to revert his form, then be my guest.
After all, magic has the power to grant any wish.
You choose what to do with that power...

TURN
He vanished again...
GRAB!
Where else?
We have to save Eunie.
Where are you going, Riché...!?

Riché
doesn't want to do what she doesn't want to do, but... what she doesn't want most of all is to abandon a friend!
Of-
Of course not.
But we also have a duty.
Is Agathe different...?
yank!

Not to mention, we've got to tell someone what happened here, and what happened to Alaira-san and Eunie...
grip
This isn't the time to be worrying about the test, but we need to bring them back to their friends.
What will we do with the merffins petrified in fear?
Let's split up.
And you head towards the exit with the merffins.
I'll go after Eunie.

The magic you've learned on your own, based on your own desires.
You can't adapt to unforseen circum-stances with that.
Because I know a wider array of magic, and what I can use is more practical.
Why does Agathe have to...
No! Riché will go!
JOLT!
You can't save Eunie the way you are now.
I know this sounds harsh, but...

A most generous brushbug such as myself can humor them that much.
However, as this creature always possesses an ink with an enchanting fragrance,

But there's more that I can't understand about them.
Come on, brush-bug!
Alright,
I'm finished!
You must have been cold with your nest all soaked, huh.
as long as you keep on top of this rain-dispersal glyph, you'll stay dry, alright?

VSHHHH...
VSHHHH...

It is quite incomprehensible.
Hey!! Coco~
Thank goodness.
For some reason, they let other groups benefit from this magic,
the magic that they spend all day making...
But, these curiousities are fascinating.
Perhaps I ought to leave a note about these wonderful "Witch" creatures, for future generations.
Yes, I'll call it...

とんがり帽子の植物たち

PLANTS OF WITCH HAT

THE ROYAL CROWN

[Appearance in Ch. 3]

Found only in the floating mountains of Dada, it is what a witch must collect in their first test to become an apprentice. Taking its name from how it resembles a crown, the former King of Dada raised the mountains so that "No crown would be higher than his." Due to its notorious history, demoting it from its high station has became part of a Witch's test.

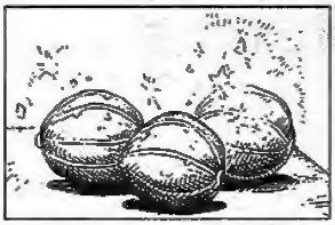
SILVERLEAF TREE

[Appearance in Ch. 5]

The "magic ink" used to draw Magic Glyphs is refined from the silverleaf tree. Its branches, silver while living, turn black upon death. The solution derived from dissolving this branch, known as Arborblut, is a raw component of the ink. According to legend, the Silverleaf Tree fell in love with a Witch, and offered to her its blood as ink, and its branch as a wand.

HUSK TUBER

[Appearance in Ch. 8]



A potato with an extremely hard shell. Makes for a delicious meal when slowly roasted.

NECTARWOOD

[Appearance in Morning Two's ten year anniversary anthology comic "Taberu"]

The bulging parts of the grain are packed with honey. Typically procesed for use in making candy and mead.

MOUNTAIN APPLE

[Appearance in Ch. 14]

A shrub that can take root in the most rugged terrain. Sour like an apple, and soft like a pear. It turns from green to yellow as it ripens, but a some will turn a poisonous red instead. Take caution.

CURELEAF

[Appearance in Ch. 16]

Applied directly to a wound, the leaves have an antiseptic effect. When dried and powdered, it can be used as a fever and cough remedy. In chapter 15, this is the herb Qifrey munched on to aid his arm's recovery. Judging from his expression, it seems to be quite bitter.
