FINANCIAL CHAIRMAN At the same time, the bank uses the Daily Finance method to calculate the average change in its money market fund's net asset value. "Our money market fund is not a leveraged fund," says the bank, adding the Average Daily Balance method is periodic, meaning you can calculate whether the price is suitable for the finance charge. The money is being loaned to someone on the date because the interest rate is already determined by your account and will not increase until the balance has been paid in full. To compute the finance charge, you multiply the Average Daily Balance from the Days in Period times the Daily Periodic Account Interest rate. The Account Statement indicates the due date of the payment. The Average Daily Balance method is calculated by adding the balance on each day of the billing cycle, then dividing the total balance by the number of days in the billing cycle. The daily balance is the balance at the end of each day. The balance is the amount of money in the account at the end of each day. It does not take any other adjustments that might have occurred that day. There is no grace period during which you can finance charge accounts. Finance charge adjustments are included in your next finance charge.
