Jeffrey,

I hope that you are well. I saw Susan last night, and although she was in a high degree of distress, I was impressed by her resourcefulness and intelligence. I believe that I can help her, and that she is absolutely capable of vastly improving her mental health. Medications are a part of this picture, but in the long run, only a small part. The real change will come through psychotherapy, and we set the groundwork for this last night. I spent two hours with her last night, and we are scheduled for 60-90 minutes on Friday. At this point, I want to check in with you to learn if you are okay with paying for therapy through me, or if she should try to seek this through a different route. I certainly would like to work with her, but I think it's just a reasonable courtesy for me to ensure that I am not planning something before we have discussed if you are comfortable paying for it! My rates are pretty simple -- $1,500 for 90 minutes during intake, and $800 per hour thereafter. Please let me know what you think. And, as it's no surprise that you are a fascinating guy to talk to, if you are interested in meeting again under whatever circumstances you might prefer, please let me know! Take care,

Paul

Thank you -- she emailed me, and I will get in touch with her tomorrow and set up an appointment for when I am in New York the week of October 18. I appreciate your trust, and will take the best care of her that I can.

Thank you Peter for facilitating the re-connection! Jeffrey, I found the time spent with you to be enjoyable and fascinating, and I appreciate your hospitality. I welcome helping your friend if I can. Would you like to set something up through assistants, or let me know a few days/times that would work for you? Thanks very much,

Paul

Paul, Jeffrey has a friend he'd like you to possibly help with.
Peter
