Private Studio Tour: Will Ryman
Wednesday, May 21st, 7 – 8 PM
193 Bowery (At Spring St), New York

Join us for a private studio visit with New York sculptor Will Ryman. Best known for his large-scale sculptures—from a golden replica of Lincoln's childhood log cabin, to a site-specific installation of stainless steel flowers on Park Ave—Ryman works both within the confines of traditional galleries and in the public domain. He has exhibited at the Saatchi Gallery in London, Paul Kasmin Gallery, and MoMA PS1.

Members will get an exclusive preview of Ryman's latest work, which consists of four different installations made from existing materials - coal, paper towel, gold leaf, to name a few.

Initially Ryman was inspired by the relationships between mass production, symbols of American power, and war. However, his finished work became more about art, art history, and the relationship between the figurative object and abstraction.
