Passion never goes out but it is a temporary reprieve from divine discontent !
I've had my fill of pleasure but it only satisfies me if it is intermittent
After the last few days Im good for now sounds fun. is the passion gone? is it now basket weaving for the guru set?

not good enough

All that - fans etc does not matter
Of course Im still riding the tiger
I don't know how to get off!
At the conference I met a Tibetan Rinpoche who comes from the Bon tradition .
I'm generally suspicious of guru types but I spent some time with him and was v taken by his authenticity . He teaches the yogas of dream and sleep states .
I had questioned the Dalai Lama on this several times and realized he knew v little even on Tibetan Buddhism - just a nice guy with a Nobel Prize and a lot of the world in awe because of his uniform (saffron robes)

I have longed all my life to wake up to primordial existence having had glimpses
I'm going to invite this guy to be in residence at the center and learn these esoteric practices that allow you to go beyond thought - I do that daily myself but I could improve on them in sleep and dream states

i think the tougher question is what constructs are useful to you and which are not. / if you could break out of your mental prison. what would you do/ / travel more, less read more less. at this stage what is there left for you to do? one more tv show? seminarl conference. . If we look at the distribtuion of people who are fans. and people who are not. do you think the distribution has changed at all over the past few years. not the numbers but the distribution. are there more at the frindges ? tails. true believers. true haters. ?

He is a physicalist at heart .
The hard problem only exists if you believe that the ontological primitive is matter
I'm beginning to realize that the main preoccupation of scientists and philosophers is to keep reinforcing their world view .
I am neither a philosopher nor scientist but I tend to do the same .
I'm hoping to live the rest of my life without any constructs whatsoever .
Let's see
Home with my family until Tuesday morning
Tomorrow I do Conan OBrien and have a dinner with Maria Shriver
Then Nashville and Las Vegas
