It has in only the first two paragraphs, three numbers from three separate dates -weeks and months apart and then they add them together. ? June 30 financials. is 1 date it says stock price of 18, different date and then puts in 19.20 per share for a third date. THEREFORE all sums inaccurate. mix specific today numbers with rounded future projections. all it would take is to put in today's numbers consistently as it should always be done. it should be a snapshot. not a conglomeration. and easily done with the correct IT program.
