I don't see a Google lawsuit on the horizon – unless I used the limited pieces they did (which I wouldn't without permission).

if I immediately went over and did this inside Facebook I would create an enemy. I have no interest in creating enemies. Not saying this is on the horizon, but if Facebook took the spectrum, but not me, then it is unlikely I would create an enemy.

If there was a non-Facebook investor I could go build the system and it would be simple. Google would likely participate.

I do want to build this company (provided I have ownership/upside and the normal controls that come with that), I know exactly how to do it.

I am taking your advice – it is playing heavily in my thoughts. I have constant negotiations ongoing and think I have a good non-google (but they could participate) path which keeps it fun and gives me funding. I will know tomorrow morning.

Spell it out for me though. What do you suggest?

Want to come to the O3b launch July 10? It is two hours from you in French Guyana. Fly in for the day and be my guest.

I don't have a side . I can easily buy it. you will need to structure your side. - either way - little value given by anyone to spectrum in an outright purchase without it being operational and subject to a google lawsuit. - your valuations all included operational spectrum. not conditional. you prefer to do things your way, and ignoring my best advice. negotiating for yourself. from a position of strength to being seen as an extortionist. , not sure how to hit you in the head. </=>

Any news from your side?

I didn't like the Google terms. I am strongly leaning towards the other route I described. I will probably make a decision tonight and certainly by tomorrow. (unless I get new information!)<=o:p>

Meanwhile both SES and Intelsat are very interested in investing/partnering.
