I do understand about the life preserver. Am I really drowning? I don't know how I am if there isn't a camera going off somewhere near my face. (Just kidding)

The Max Planck Society is a pretty large organization, composed of a lot of different institutes all over Germany. The main seat is [REDACTED], I think, as is their Psychiatric Institute, which is very well known and well respected. Which institute do you mean, or do you mean the MPG as a whole? I would research a lot for your foundation, but I'm not sure how much access my train has to hard science. What are you interested in?
