
From: jeffrey epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Sent: Monday, December 10, 2012 3:13 PM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re:

Wrong on most counts. However th=nks for your advice

Sent from my iPad

On Dec 10, 2012, at 10:06 AM, [REDACTED] > wrote:

Jeffrey, You seem to be in a bad mood quite a bit...

Let me guess...Your next=girlfriend has become inexplicably jealous, she doesn't want you to see some other girl, nothing gets done on time and nobody is working hard enough. You feel taken advantage off. Close enough? I haven't been aro=nd for a while, wouldn't it be strange if you had the same problems with di=ferent people? You had me and Sarah traveling with you and 100% d=voted to you, now look at the people around you. Those are all your choices= Don't you think that alone should raise a flag about possible lapses in ju=gement?

You could have such a great, peacef=l life if you realized that the problem is not everyone arou=d you, it's actually you. Fo=give my blunt honesty, but I suggest you consider making some changes. Perh=ps you could start with lightening up a little and =/span>going back to being more honest a=d less manipulative. You have certainly been through a lo= in the past years so it is understandable that it would affect your behavi=r. But you have changed so much! I think it could be really beneficial for you to talk to a professional. I say that as a concerned friend and I mean it in the nicest w=y.

=/span>

If I am wrong about the problems, you can just ignore this email and enjoy your pea=eful life. I have no agenda, I just want to help you.&nb=p;

No n=ed to respond, just please think about it...

=/div>

=