
From: jeffrey epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Sent: Sunday, August 7, 2011 2:10 PM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: maestro w/o an orchestra

Rome today , let's try next weekend

Sorry for all the typos .Sent from my iPhone

On Aug 7, 2011, at 4:07 PM, David Gelernter <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Apple's new Lion stuff is even more like ours. Why is this depressing? I should be saying sure, just means I'm one of the best softw designers in the world. It's sitting on the sidelines doing nothing that hurts. Forget about Sirius--a small 1-year prelim prophylactic mem project w/ voice-tagging (stroke your lifeline backwards or forwards, or murmur "schwartz" & get the thing you've voice-tagged "schwartz")--voice-tagging itself is worth the $million for a year. It's not a big committment, & there must be an investor who thinks "based purely on statistical extrapolation given past performance, its worth giving this guy a (tiny) orchestra to conduct for a year"

Could we talk, meet? I'm in the city nxt week, for what it's worth.

Don't mean to sound off to you. Yr a friend & I appreciate it.