
From: Richard Kahn <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Thursday, May 26, 2011 8:46 PM
To: Jeffrey Epstein
Cc: Larry Visoski
Subject: STT fuel credit update

Larry has attached a summary of $50,000 fuel we prepaid. Current price = .92 less 1.76 (discount) = 5.16 (0.32 greater than previous deal)

Susan Hancock believes that prices will drop next week on June 1st.

I assume we should wait and evaluate next week.

Should we try to negotiate a $100,000 prepay and ask for a greater discount than 1.76?

Please advise.

Richard Kahn
HBRK Associates Inc.
301 East 66th Street, Suite 40F
New York, NY 10065
[REDACTED]

Begin forwarded message:

From: [REDACTED]
Date: May 26, 2011 2:38:08 PM EDT
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: STT fuel credit update

Rich,
this is what I have recorded for STT fueling's: I will email you all receipts now,.
3/22/11 90 gallons $76
3/27/11 1100 gallons
3/27/11 1101 gallons
3/29/11 2501 gallons
4/30/11 2101 gallons
5/22/11 2317 gallons
total 9210 gallons @ $4.84 per gallon = $44,576.00 used (difference remaining: $5,424.00).

from Susan Hancock:

The available prepay balance is down to $5,388.60. Our current posted dropped .15 and is now $6.92 minus your rate of $1.76 means your current price is $5.16. Do you want to advise your accounting for another re-pay in same amount? Please advise.

I fully expect Texaco to drop price again on the first as they typically do this time of year.

Sent via BlackBerry by AT&T

=