I really need the option to serve on DT and MC at our discretion. What do you think Jeffrey?

Paul

Whilst the Duchess (cc'd) does not have any objections to the content of the letter – she is uncomfortable that any letter can be circulated to publishers as part of a legal case without any control from her as to the distribution.

She would prefer that this wording is available by request to her. I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards

James

James,

My apologies for the delay in reverting to you due to confusion as to who was to come back to who... In any event, in answer to your question, I would confirm that it would be our intention to release the letter to the legal departments of those publishers, in particular the Daily Telegraph with whom we are taking issue regarding their description of our client.

I am attaching another copy of the suggested wording for the letter from your client.

Please do not hesitate to give me a call if you require any further clarification.

Kind regards.

Paul
