
From: David Gelernter [REDACTED]
Sent: Friday, April 1, 2011 11:35 AM
To: Jeffrey Epstein
Subject: Re: aren't dreams not only hallucinations but delusions?

Great; also love the idea that sonata form is a guide to the mind. (Collaborate on a paper someday? Or maybe you'll write it yourself? John Brockman would go into orbit.) Enjoy gorgeous Paris, if you happen to be in Paris.

On Fri, Apr 1, 2011 at 7:28 AM, Jeffrey Epstein <jeevacat@gmail.com <mailto:jeevacation@gmail.com> > wrote:

It was great fun,, analogy, harmony, keys temperament. , hearing=the same tune on five different instruments, analogy. metaphor, , , =elody hidden in chords. temporal similarities.. lets play.

On Fri, Apr 1, 2011 at 7:20 AM, David Gelernter [REDACTED] wrote:

Yr thought is fruitful for my own thinking; 2 symptoms of schizophrenia are=prominent auditory hallucinations & bizarre delusions. In delusions=I interpret incorrectly instead of sensing incorrectly. In dreaming I s=e things that aren't there, & don't necessarily understand the= rationally; something ordinary can be ominous or frightening in a dream.=A0 A connection between dream-thought ("Traumlogik") & schiz=might shed light on dreaming as well as on schiz.

Thanks again, & hope to see you up here-- date-last-viewed 0 date-received 1301657700 flags 8590195713 gmail-label-ids 22 2 remote-id 146356