[REDACTED] I am concerned that as you want to be in the restaurant business, a business that requires skill and discipline and following strict recipes guidelines, procedures,, that you are spending your time looking at land ,, have been unable to cook, have decided once again do try things your way as opposed to following recipes.. I want you to do well. im not sure what is troubling you, you buy magazines about food, read about farms, and when it comes time to actually do things, you revert back to methods that have failed repeatedly,
