i will try to call over the weekend,, I am well aware of the story of the scorpion and the frog. no big deal, its just you and i differ whether or not friendship is a one or two -way street. I have tried to share my thoughts friends, advice. Like the norman island issue, I will maintain my discipline and not get involved. The discussion invariably revolves around what I want and its limitations , ie The faux argument that i can't get permissions) It was only my attempt to be a friend, none of the discussion is about what you will do , its only about how it might fuck-up, not what you will contribute only about problems. As you said , it could be a bother for you,, so lets not.
