your behavior is so damaging to your self , that i am concerned that something else is going on.. Your first trip to ny , for next, ended in disaster, no work, and bad reputaion , since you often repeated how every client loved you , they really loved you. and became so self centered that you eventually went home, you later apologized and said you now understood. I do not know if you are so freaked out by the litte amount of work you are getting , and it is making you so fearful that you have once again started to behave badly or, is the stress causing other issues.. I do not want to talk to you, in your condition.. IF you decide to take responsibility for your self.. I am always there. good luck
