Hi Jeffrey,

You have a google + profile and a LinkedIn profile:

[REDACTED]

I will use this user name and password for everything I get you on.

I will get you on flicker, picassa and all of the other main public profile sites asap. I need to call LinkedIn and Google to find out if there is anything I can do to optimize you on these sites. Many people have your same name so that is why your profiles are not popping up on the first page. You could use Edward in your middle name but when people google you, they google "jeffrey epstein" -- so that is the name that you need to work on.

I will keep adding you to profiles-- but my sense is that you definitely need algorithmic deassociation and optimization. The press will just keep piling on top otherwise and you need to get your Wikipedia site changed will update you shortly.

best to you,
