i'm absolutely flabbergasted by your perspective.
first of all, i thanked you via email en route here for following through, secondly i said thank you to you in person in the hotel room for the accommodation, thirdly i hadn't even left yet... (the time at which it would have been customary to say thank you again) you let me down, not the other way around, and then i get punished for it...

it's bemusing and sad , but it's a massive lesson

It would have been nice to hear at least one thank you. Your behavior is abominable
