try to write the middle paragraph how you visualize your legal training.. not unlike sport training,, it is a competition of ideas.. their presentation needs skill, practice, trial and error,, hopefully not too many errors AT trial. .. small changes make large differences, and the legal system and the sport world look backward to precedent, though in sports its breaking ones own records as well as the worlds best, I visualize myself doing both. arguing cases preparing for unknowns, with the added benefit that if i do my job right I might actually change the lives of those effected, more than the simple cheer, from the crowd
