Jeffrey.....

Fadi says that Paris is not the right venue for this. He and Fadel Hshad (personal adviser to the President of the TNC) have already informed the right people and they have agreed to work with us. He feels that to seek meetings in Paris (and become part of the pack) would disrupt what has been accomplished. He asked for both of us to be patient, because the mandates are already in the works, and no other sales pitches are needed. Especially since the leadership of the TNC have more pressing priorities right now: forming a new and expanded government, moving & settling in new offices in Tripoli, getting water, medical supplies, fuel, power, food, security, civil needs in place.

With this said, lets all speak tomorrow (via conf-call) to map out a strategy and timeline.

Sincerely,
Greg Brown
