the idea for you to forward to both gagawi, and mohamed, would be for the gov't to buy up real estate, in exchange for a long term note. maybe with some participation upside. lets say, payable in 10-15 years. they would then sell the apt s for cash in an amount that reflected the added amount that a residency visa could command. It would be a back door way of raising debt. It would have the use of the cash from the sale of the apts. and only need to pay it back upon maturity of the notes.
