Jeffrey,

I met with Gary Anzalone on Friday to view the progress of the Bell 430 interior, he mentioned there is a person who owns a Diamond mine in Africa that wants a large aircraft, he already owns a smaller size jet at this time. Gary asked me if you would be interested in trading the Boeing 727 for a 50 carat diamond. Gary told me it has a low value of 7 million up to 20 million if cut and sold deperate pieces.

I know this is a crazy offer, Gary asked me to fwd,. please see attach spec sheet of the diamond,.
thank you,
Larry

Larry,

I have attached details for the 50.66 CARAT VERY LIGHT PINK INTERNALLY
FLAWLESS EMERALD CUT DIAMOND

MEASUREMENTS: 24.11 x 16.4 x
13.86 mm

CARAT WEIGHT: 50.66 CARATS

Would the boss be willing to accept this on swap even up versus the Boeing?

As an FYI, almost exactly one year ago, a 24 carat pink diamond sold at auction for 40 million dollars. (google it).

This is a great asset for a mega wealthy man to have and diversify his assets in the event of a global economic collapse because it be easily transported and easily liquidated, particularly for the numbers we are talking. Or it can be held as a family heirloom for generation after generation.

Take a look at the attachments and let me know your thoughts.

PS...This diamond has NEVER been offered or displayed to the public.

Sincerely,

Gary Anzalone
