Subject: Your Harvard Charity

How are you? Had lunch with Paul yesterday and he said he saw you in New Haven and that you are in California right now. Hope all is well.

I am treating the children of a divorce (very combative) and the wife suffers from Batten Disease. She is very attractive, but her MD estimates her lifespan at 10-15 years. She has a foundation, Catherine's Hope for a Cure.org, and one of the 2 primary benefactors is Dr. Katerine Sims, Associate Professor of Neurology at Harvard Med School. Just a suggestion because I know you have made a large donation to Harvard and this may interest you.

Donnie Deustch is having a function for her charity at his place in NYC soon and I may come up for it. If I do and you are in town, would be nice to see you.

Try to stay out of trouble.
