the atv accident today, was pretty bad.. interesting issue, the kawaskai brakes, that i questioned compared to the polaris, was the major cause. you and i both realized that we could compensate for the lack of left brake pressure by using the right brake as well. however we only considered moving forward, [REDACTED] was reversing down the owners drive, AS the landscapers were coming down the drive, though she tried to brake,by squeezing the left one as far as it would go. the bike kept going so she reached for the right one and as the angle of the bike was steep. hit the gas as she had tried to reach up and over the handgrip for the brake,
