Dear McGee

Sorry I have not been able to get back to you. My state of the union speech opening of the parliament etc has kept me out of touch. Can we try to arrange a call this Thursday night same time. I believe it's 11 your time and 8 am Friday in Male.

I will have some of my team with me.

Jeffrey is right we have one of the highest mobile user rates anywhere, although use of tablets is not widespread outside of Male.

The opening of parliament was another painful exercise but its done after almost 5 hours of repeated attempts.

Then the trial of former president Nasheed began with some street protests.

So it's been a some what difficult week.

Warm regards.

Waheed

Jeffrey (Epstein):

That was something that I also had thought of but the reality of being able to do something like that is going to be based on whether, or not, we have the internet infrastructure to support such initiatives.

Given the incredibly large number of cell phone users in the Maldives I would think that there is at least enough connectivity to be able to have the discussions around the idea.

You are correct in that being a very good approach. Utilizing iPads and other available internet tools, we could revamp several education initiatives to help teach a consistent curriculum and implement teaching standards throughout the islands and atolls.

President Waheed:

Will it be possible to have someone from your team with the proper technology background be a part of the Friday call in order to be able to discuss Jeffrey's idea further and to answer some of the base level infrastructure questions?

Thanks,

McGee

Go it. I am returning from Washington D.C. tomorrow afternoon
I will review the comments you sent to me and get back to you when I return to Boston
We can then also work out the details for scheduling the call on Friday
Talk to you soon

McGee,

Please find attached a copy of the questionnaire with comments from some of our colleagues.

We should consider the following issues in the questionnaire.

1. Drug and alcohol abuse. National survey of drug users completed recently indicates there are 7500 active drug users, only 174 persons can be treated at any given time in the current facilities.
 2. Infrastructure: sewerage systems, safe water and harbors. Currently roughly one fifth of government budget on these projects. Everywhere we go that seems to be the demand along with good quality education and health care.
 3. Population concentration. Majority of islands with population under 1000. 64 out of 196 inhabited islands with less than 100 students in school. Per capita cost of investing in infrastructure and tertiary services for these small islands is prohibitive compared to their relocation to bigger islands. Issue is sensitive because people don't like moving to other islands unless there is an incentive package including new homes and financial compensation.
- These issues also need to be reflected in the questions.

For next Friday meeting, Shafeeu will be in Sri Lanka, but we will try to bring him and Jeff Waheed into the discussion.

Best regards
Waheed
