I'd like to help you on your public profile issues, so tell me how you'd like to think about it. My sense is that you're unsure about turning this into an extended and time-consuming project, so perhaps we ought to talk a bit more about what's involved in that. But more immediately, your September meeting seems like an ideal opportunity to test the waters by putting together a top-tier group of funders, an activist or two, and some selected journalists, invited on an off-the-record basis.

I am at your disposal.
