Jeffery,

Thanks for the meeting today. I am always impressed by how much you find out about Maldives before we meet and how many questions you have. Both Jeff and I enjoyed our meeting. Jeff lives here in Manhattan, so please call him if you like and he will be happy to come and see you.

Kindly see if you can help us with the two projects I mentioned. The cluster Innareha project will be the next big thing in tourism in Maldives. My friend Didi and I are working on this. We are good friends of both Sol and Sultan, so you may discuss with them if you think its useful. We have done a financial feasibility study which I can send to you.

The little island is more like a personal project and I would like to be involved in it. The island is too beautiful to be "sold" to just anyone. Appreciate your thoughts on what can be done with it. I am attaching the picture of the island.
