

To: jeevacation@gmail.com[jeevacation@gmail.com]
From: Kitt from Khan Academy
Sent: Mon 1/6/2014 1:06:17 AM
Subject: Why New Year's Resolutions are broken

Dear [REDACTED]n,

My New Year's resolutions have usually gone out the window by February. So let's be realistic! We here at Khan Academy are making resolutions just for the month of January. Join us:

Make your resolution!

And when you visit the site five times before the end January to work on your resolution, you'll earn your 2014 New Year's Resolution badge.
Start earning your badge!

Back in high school, I had trouble with chemistry and avoided it all through college. So my New Year's resolution is to complete the first half of our chemistry tutorial -- and maybe even start organic chemistry if I start feeling a bit pre-med.

Here's what Esther, Minli, and Drew have resolved to do:

"Math always gave me trouble in school, and now who do I work for? Mr. Math, Sal Khan! So my goal is to master the last ten skills in Algebra -- look out, Sal, the CHO is bringin' it!"

Esther

Executive assistant and Chief Happiness
Officer (CHO)

"At the office, I'm surrounded by software developers, so I've decided to teach myself with our Computer Programming tutorials."

Minli

Head of Strategy and Programs

"I'm going to start prepping for my AP Microeconomics and Statistics exams. Wish me luck!"

Drew

Software
development intern,
high school senior

See you on Khan Academy soon, I'm looking forward to finding out what you're excited to learn this year!

Make your New Year's resolution and start working on it today!

Kitt Hirasaki

Product Designer and future doctor (could be!)

You are receiving this occasional big announcement as a registered user on Khan Academy. If you'd prefer not to receive these infrequent emails, please unsubscribe.

P.S. You can learn almost anything on Khan Academy -- check out what everyone else is resolving to learn!