I believe it will look different than the adjacent light. Similar, but certainly different.

I do not suggest leaving it as is.

I have already spoken the metal plating company and they are anticipating receiving one (1) gasper on Tuesday morning from us.

They will have the part ready to ship back on Friday - or Monday at the worst case so that we may pressure test the completed assembly.

we might consider not plating it. as the size is different , maybe we should leave the finish ??
lets see what you think when you see it.

Eric, can you compare this gasper to the one you present to Jeffrey, this one appears smaller and not of the same design that we had in the airplane for the demo?
