Hoffman Research Statement Oct 25.docx

Jeff,

- 1) Thanks for the article.
- 2) It was a pleasure meeting you. I found your questions and arguments stimulating.
- 3) I plan to come to NYC, with collaborators, this weekend and again the weekend of the 23rd. It would be great to chat more, if you are available.
- 4) FYI, I attach my "research statement," which summarizes all my thoughts since high school. My website can be found here: <https://sites.google.com/a/eng.ucsd.edu/hoffman/>

[If you look at attached: Pages 1-3 justify why game theory should be applied to social questions, like deception. The remaining pages describe a few projects, such as why we speak indirectly and why we distinguish between lies of omission and lies of commission.]

Best,
Moshe

P.S. I am curious to know why you are so interested in science in general and deception in particular.
