Yes; and a critical one at that. We have maxed out the available power to support the equipment. The only way to get the additional power that would be required to increase the amplifier power would be to install an aircraft power converter (which is something you did not want to do earlier).

I've now gone through the entertainment system myself. These are all cheap parts. very cheap. we need new head, speakers, subs, amps. wiring, many available. all for less than 10k. I'm not sure if there is a design limitation that I am missing.
