WWW Speakers & Friends:

Following the release of the 2013 WWW Conference app, developed by ScrollMotion, we have had incredible reception to the iPad app's unique content and format. The navigation and design of the app truly match the improvised and intellectual nature of the first WWW Conference 2012.

For those who have yet to experience this distinct tool please see the information below to guide you:

One.

The app is only available for either iPad or iPad mini, so please make sure you are not trying to purchase the app on any other device.

Two.

The official name of the app is "The WWW Conference". It is available for download directly to your iPad or iPad mini for 3.99 USD.

Three.

The app is available through iTunes only. For ease of accessibility there is a link provided here.

Link to App in iTunes:

<https://itunes.apple.com/us/app/the-www-conference/id686145606?mt=8>

By following the link above, on any device, you may read a thorough description of the app's content (only available in the app), as well as view some screenshots that give you a sense of the app's clear and easily directed interface.

I hope this encourages you to experience this material of such substance, in a way that has been curated solely for the content.

If you have not spent time browsing through what this app is offering, I urge you to do so now.
