I really apologize for being a bit undecisive regarding your kind offer to support me, offering to pay for my school dormitory. As I had mentioned to you, the past few days have been just crazy, and the coming ones are nothing better.

I fully agree with you, you are absolutely right - I came to NY to study and not to waste time while travelling from one place to another for hours and hours. The matter is that as I found a foster family, I did not want to misuse your generosity accepting your support regarding the dormitory, because I would very much like to ask you to support my studies at Juilliard for the next year, which would be really difficult.

It's only my first week in NY - everything is so new to me, and there are so many things I have to do at school NOW- different assignments, as well as other formalities like medical forms...

Maybe you could find some time to meet with me this weekend just for a coffee and discuss about my problems?

I do hope you will understand my situation and will not consider my confusion as a rejection of your generosity.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes,
