Subject:)

I did great - had a dinner with Wojtak and his friend Jonathan Lourie from London. Then we walked around the village, kept running into ppl they knew (I knew a few as well). They were almost competing who would walk next to me - I ended up walking in the middle:) all of us speaking French, talking about Syria and Iran (By the way, i googled - djokovic is fluent in all the same languages as me - isn't it karma? You have just told me recently that I need a multilingual international!!)

So we have the coach so far.. Hope to meet the victim tmw.. Reminds me of the time when I was chasing the American consul in Milan in order to get a visa to come see you in New York:)
