Hi Jeff

Just got back from Athens. Very nice and interesting PM . As you know they want advice on projects (infrastructure, tourism) that would improve the perception of the country. I think it would be interesting to look at means to restart local small and medium size co- which was a large part of the economy before they joined the EU. Samaras said that they would be interested to build a competitive software industry.

For David: this is why I m not sure we want to buy any of it ...and this is also why he is canibalising the brand.

The trip was bad for my eyes and it s all blurry! Tomorrow will be better.

Best regards
