I was very disappointed when i received this email. I followed up and spoke with Sam today and he said that his company is made up of all religious jews and that although he believes your case was silly he has to decline the job.

Hi Richard,

It was good speaking with you last week.

After considering the situation at hand I have decided that unfortunately we cannot help in this case.

Regardless of the facts – and we know that what is said online often fails to match the truth – I made the decision several years back, not to take on cases of this nature.

My best advice in this situation would be for the person to spend significant efforts building up his philanthropic profile online.

By that I mean giving specifically to causes that show that what people may think is incorrect – giving to charities that help victims of abuse etc.

I am sorry that we are not able to help you further.

Regards,
Sam.

Hi Richard,

I am following up on your message left to Digital Whiteout.
We are their partners in various Digital Branding and Reputation Management projects and I was asked to follow up and see if we could be of assistance.

Please feel free to contact me at your convenience.
