sorry, the height is the reason it is there, to block the pool, it could even be a standup closet

Dave and I just put a prototype dockbox up there for you to have a look. We can do anything you want with the exterior as far as the decor goes. It looks a bit smaller than the old box but it actually has more room than the internal box in the old set up. We could also move the handle to the top of the lid, which would keep fingers further away, if you would like? Let me know what you think.

Thank You
