Many teachers assign homework to students every day. Do you think that daily homework is necessary for students?

School is an important period of our lives . There we learn many valuable things that help us to succeed in the future .But most of time people do not appreciate school and go to school only because they feel it is necessary, especially many people are concerned about daily homework that people gives to students in school . Some people think it is not important to do homework every day ,However, others people believe that to do homework every day is necessary for students .In my opinion , daily homework is necessary for students because it helps enhance their skills and be discipline in life . First, daily homework helps students to improve their skills and gain knowledges . We all remember our school years when doing homework seemed to us as the worst thing to do . instead of enjoying your free of school time with friends and family we had to spend a lot of time to do exercises that we already did in school and already understood. However, the reason why repetitive exercises are useful because it helps student to improve their skills and to, memorize . For example , i had a hard time in hight school with algorithm in math classes and i always hated to do my homework , because i didnt understand it, andI had to spend a lot to time on each algorithm . But these daily assignments helped me get deep insights into these algorithms and i became easy to do the exercisesand i spent less time on doing my homework and moreover, i even enjoyed to crack these complex algorithms .

Second, i think regular homework assignments would encourage students to be discipline and help them in the future. When people do things regularly , they become part of their life .And it is no longer viewed as an obligation but rather as habit . Doing homework on a regular basis has a lot of positive aspects . And the most important is keeping students disciplined and well -organized . And doing regularly homework in school , develops discipline which keep its track in a daily life and becomes as a life style . For example. my younger brother was always disorganized and frazzled child until he started to go to school . Daily studying and homework helped him improved as in a personal field as well. He was no longer frazzled . In surprise he was so organize d that he even follow a daily schedule and notebook of things that he have to do and want ot accomplish . And i'm strongly believe that it is because of his daily studying and homework

In conclusion, even though daily homework might seems for many people including parents as unnecessary requirement in school . It have been shown that the students who do homework in a daily basis do better in school because they are able to improve their skills , gain knowledges and discipline themselves
