LSJ Wx,

Today - Sunday, partly cloudy, scattered showers in the afternoon, typical for this time of year, nothing significant on the satellite,.
85 degrees, wind 10kts from the East,.

Let me know if I should return to NY for possible GII to LSJ,,,I have Meridian and Mars Avionics working Autopilot and cabin heating issues,. I understand your concerns on GII problems recently, and agree with you, .Meridian informed me the Autopilot Pitch computer and Stab Augmentation Computer check ok with system maintenance check,. One problem is the pitching fwd and aft during climb, the other is the Yaw, or Dutch roll we experience during decent. Dutch roll tendency is always a result of Yaw damper failure. still working the problems. I switched gyro sources for capt. instruments during our flight last night, and seemed to work for 20min, then during decent, we experienced the Dutch roll again.

Our GII has One IRU (Inertial Reference Unit) Laser nav, and two original gyro systems installed,.
(Our Boeing has Triple IRU's like the GIV and GV have),.
