evolution. luck, chance, ( they are different). evolution is not growth,, one needs mutation ) change to funmciton) directed evolution(change ) or darwinain,, .. too types.. business should CHange to arguagblety almost randsomly . to meet the unknown environmental challenges of the futre,, so change for change sake is good. good for the group as the enviornment of the future is at times unpredictalbe. Gould used puntuated equiilibruim,, as inthe moment of inflection points where the futre will really be differetn ( computers vs paper

Just got asked to be on a panel in a few hours about CHANGE.

One guy will talk about individual change ("dignity") another about community change and they want me to talk about SOCIETY change. How can I address this without sounding hoky?

Am prepared to answer questions but I need the requisite 2 minute sound bite any advice?
