Just met with Scott for 1.5 hours. Very smart and seems extremely devoted to you.

Regarding pay – he is under the impression that you already offered 10k per month and he is asking for 15k per month.

He is willing to have you bill out his time for other clients he currently has or any of your contacts but seemed firm on his number since he will be giving up all his contacts and available to you around the clock..

Should we counter with a firm number of hours and a lower number

He is now in with Darren and was disturbed that I did not bless his number immediately

This figures are different from earlier email so please advise
