Jeffrey,

I'm so sorry to bother you with this again but I am at loss on how to handle the situation with the $900 my ex-roommate [REDACTED] owes you. I have repeatedly tried to reach her regarding the outstanding loan but she seems to think that if she ignores me she won't have to pay you back. Again, I am so sorry for this outrageous behavior. I have repaid $4,100 but the remaining $900 are in her possession and quite frankly, I can't afford to repay her loan -- my only income comes from [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] and as we all know, those resources are limited! I have given Richard [REDACTED] email and phone number -- perhaps if he directs his attention to her instead she might better understand the gravity of the situation?

Thank you again,
[REDACTED]

The documentation (emails between myself, [REDACTED] and our third roommate) is in [REDACTED], but clearly states that she accepted a loan of $1,500. She knows this, but apparently thinks that she can get away with not repaying her loan if she just denies having ever taken it. Regrettably, we never signed any papers. I will take up the issue with her mother as well. How would you like to proceed? Is there anything we can say to her to urge her to repay the loan?

Richard -
I will keep trying to reach her through all channels possible. As I mentioned - there is documentation proving that she accepted this loan and that the outstanding $900 is her responsibility.

Thank you and I'm sorry again for the inconvenience.

Richard -

I'm so sorry for this inconvenience. The obligation, however, is completely in [REDACTED] ballpark. She is trying to get out of repaying her loan to Jeffrey, which is inexcusable.

There is email documentation proving that she accepted a loan of $1,500 from Jeffrey, as well as two witnesses.

$600 of this loan was left by [REDACTED] as a security deposit on our mutual lease, which was why I was able to repay $4,100 (i.e. $3,500, my part of the loan, as well as these $600). However, the remaining $900 is money that [REDACTED] still has, and owes Jeffrey.

Thank you,
[REDACTED]

i just spoke with [REDACTED] and she said that she never took a loan and that you are responsible for the $900 not her she was a bit frisky and i believe she only picked up my call as she did not know who i was please advise

thank you

Hello Richard,

I'm terribly sorry. Have you tried contacting [REDACTED]? I have tried reaching her as well but she is not returning my calls.

The remaining $900 of the loan is owed by [REDACTED] [REDACTED] - I am doing everything in my power to urge her to repay the money as soon as possible, but I think it would help if you contacted her as well. Her email is

[REDACTED] and her cell phone

Again - I'm terribly sorry for [REDACTED] lack of respect. I have personally brought up the situation up with Jeffrey.

Thank you,
[REDACTED]

Hello Richard,
I have now wired $4,100 to the account you listed.

As I mentioned below - the outstanding balance of $900 is to be repaid by my former roommate and co-
recipient to the loan [REDACTED] [REDACTED]. I have told her that the deadline for repayment is April 1. If she has not repaid her loan by then, please feel free to contact her at [REDACTED]@[REDACTED] or on her cell phone [REDACTED].

Thanks again,

Thanks Richard.

I will wire $4,100 by the end of this month. The remaining $900 will be wired from a different account - my ex-roommate [REDACTED] who was co-recipient to the loan - also by the end of this month.

Best,
[REDACTED]

Hi -
Yes, the funds for the deposit will be released this month.

Please advise on how the money is best repaid - wire, cash, check, etc.

Thank you again,

Just wanted to follow up on our last conversation regarding money due to Jeffrey Epstein.
I believe you said repayment would be in March

Please call me with any questions

Thank you
