I've been watching RL closely. Every time after the earnings announcements, even when there is an initial spike in price, the next day it goes down and never recovers in less than 9 days - that's all I have till expiration. I've also been watching it daily and it is usually up at 11am & 3 pm and lowest between 12-2 so I'm tempted to sell all calls today after 3pm. Am I just playing fortune teller or is there some method to trading mostly based on the chart history?
