so more reasons for the pettiness...

turns out the guy on my old team I got a CEO job offer for (from Lytro Inc) parlayed it into a few million dollars. Of course Steve doesn't even like this guy and this guy is good at negotiating and even turned down the first retention award, but steve just raised it only so I wouldn't "win".

More info on the wrecking ball--not that we care--but what a mess. More next time we talk.
