It really sucks (not in a good way).

Having a bleed in my right eye. Lost a vision in that eye. Fortunately left is still working OK.

Just had several specialists on a call. Everyone of them is in shock that this is happening as I had Lucentis shot in that eye.

You were right. I should listen you.

I am leaving Davos in an hour.

Going back to Seattle as it turns out that doing dx and mapping my retina with a new bleed would be much harder in Zurich. And in Seattle they have all documents, including detailed scans from the last week.

Sam is talking first flight for Seattle to help me.

Again – I should listen your advice – well – live and learn from mistakes.
