Hi Jeffrey,

Some well known leaders:

John Mather (Nobel prize, microwave background radiation),

Bill Philips (Nobel prize, low temperature physics),

Harold Varmus (Nobel prize, cancer research).

Eric Lander (leader in human genome project);

E. O. Wilson (Pulitzer prize, biologist)

Siddhartha Mukherjee (Pulitzer Prize, cancer research)

Oliver Sacks (neuroscience)

John Holdren (Obama's Science Advisor)

And some other scientists, perhaps less well known, but doing great stuff:

Julia Greer, Professor of Materials Science and Mechanics, CalTech (helped develop the world's lightest material)

Dennis Hong, Robotics and Mechanisms Laboratory, Virginia Tech (developing autonomous humanoid robots)

Ryan Chin, Smart Cities group, MIT Media Lab (won buckminster fuller award, developing smart cars--foldable car, mobility on demand)

Eitan Grinspun, Professor of Computer Science, Columbia University (developing algorithms for simulating realistic motion--working with animation studios; films like Avatar)

Boaz Almog--Tel Aviv (developed first quantum levitation device; will have first public demonstration at 2012 WSF)

Ellen Jorgensen, co-founder & president, Genspace (first public bio lab -- in Brooklyn--open wet lab DIY biology movement, bringing serious biotech to masses)

Let me know if you want contact/intro to any one.

Best,

Brian

Hi Jeffrey,

Great talking to you earlier. And thanks very much for supporting the 5th Anniversary World Science Festival.

I'm not sure if you've looked at our website this year, but here's the link:

www.worldsciencefestival.com

Let me know if there's anything you'd like to go to (if you are around on Saturday June 2, I'm doing an event on quantum mechanics that night). Also, below is the gala invitation, which this year falls on Tuesday May 29th, in case you might like to go to that event.

I've attached a standard World Science Festival pledge form at the bottom of this email (which has the WSF non-for-profit status, etc.) Last time you contributed $100K to WSF. If you were to do the same this year, we would of course be thrilled.

All best,

Brian
