

To: jeevacation@gmail.com[jeevacation@gmail.com]; Jeffrey Epstein[jeevacation@gmail.com]
From: David Gelernter
Sent: Fri 6/10/2011 12:04:37 PM
Subject: 3 super-bullets (140 words)
NewBullets.doc

Pls let me know when we can talk--

§ At meetings, tune in the stream on your phone, rewind with a finger-flick to your last-meeting notes, audio-record straight onto the stream (audio can be transcribed any time); meanwhile, watch incoming news, messages, next appointments & the shared channel for this meeting.

Stream = permanent memory with an observation window.

§ Your memory stream is the one place online you can put things & never lose track of them, now or 10 years later, because it absorbs & processes everything. Q: where is it? A: on the stream.

§ Each public stream you've mixed into yours (news, people, groups) has a flow-rate knob that makes separate posts pile-up into summaries. The stream-tail is an AI lab. The memory stream is a near-term commercial project, & the future of the Net: everyone gets a stream & a stream tuner.

On Thu, Jun 9, 2011 at 7:38 AM, David Gelernter [REDACTED] wrote:

here I am, pls let me know what's convenient, today, tmw, etc. Prosthetic Memory is a powerful way to look at a stream. It's the detachable part of your memory that you can carry in your pocket & look at from outside.