I see Merci mon cher

this first paragraph is fantastic because it is made in a narrative style . but passages have little connection...it all sounds a bit haphazard but havent you open the newest version (its enclosed now) ? Its all about being an attorney, completely different. it forgets about UN.

What do you think of the green passage? its in a document together with all other paragraphs

If I push hard on the envelope of my future images I can see myself being an international attorney. I will defend my clients and doing my job right I might actually change lives of those affected which is more than simple cheers from the crowd. I know that this work won't be monotonous and it will be as exiting as sports. Debating in a court is a competition of ideas, the search for and exchange of compelling arguments. Their presentation needs skills and practice not unlike sports training. At trial small changes make large differences like in sports tiny errors in technic might lead to a tragic injury. Both the legal system and the sport world look backward to precedent, though in sports we talk about breaking one's own records as well as the world's best. I visualize myself doing both. I will be arguing cases being prepared for unknow, facing new challenges and following the rules of the game, pushing the extremes and this time in legal world. Being that competitive, disciplined and always applying technics from my very childhood I believe that law will enable me to do ingtelliculay what snowboarding has enabled me to do physically.
